Steve Troxler
Commissioner

In my role as Agriculture Commissioner it is important for me to listen to the concerns of farmers and ag groups and to listen to ideas about how to help our industry remain strong.

Two upcoming activities are taking place to give farmers a chance to stand up and be heard and to provide updates and insight into critical farm legislation.

On Jan. 31, the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services will be hosting the annual Agriculture Development Forum at the State Fairgrounds in Raleigh in conjunction with the Southern Farm Show.

We are still finalizing details as this paper goes to press, but the program will focus on the latest on the Farm Bill debate in Congress, agricultural economics as related to biofuels and farmland preservation, and an agricultural outlook for 2008.

This will be a good opportunity for farmers to hear more about important issues that affect their business, ask questions and share ideas with one another.

We expect to draw national and state leaders to discuss the current status of the Farm Bill and its potential impact on North Carolina farmers and various commodities. Likewise, we hope to draw state and business leaders in the field of biofuels and renewable energy to talk about the prospects of this industry.

I invite each of you to make plans to attend the forum. It will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Holshouser Building. The (See Ag Forum, page 2)

2007 Census of Agriculture getting under way

Farmers across America are getting the opportunity to make their voices heard and help shape the future of agriculture by completing the 2007 Census of Agriculture.

Conducted every five years by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the census is a complete count of the nation's farms and the people who operate them. The census looks at land ownership, operator characteristics, production practices, income and expenditures and other topics. It provides the only source of uniform, comprehensive agricultural data for every county in America.

"The Census of Agriculture provides information that is not available anywhere else – information that benefits agricultural producers and their communities in many ways," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "Policy makers, community planners, companies and farmers all use census data to make a variety of important decisions.

YOUR VOICE. YOUR FUTURE. YOUR RESPONSIBILITY.
2007

The USDA National Agricultural Statistics Service was scheduled to mail out census forms Dec. 28 to collect data for the 2007 calendar year. Completed forms are due Feb. 4. Producers can return their forms by mail. For the first time, they also have the option of filling out the census online using a secure Web site. Instructions for submitting data online will be included with the census form.

"We're committed to making this census the best count ever. It's about the future of agriculture and rural communities in our state," said Herb Vanderberry, director of USDA's NASS office in Raleigh.

"Regardless of how large or small their operation is or what kinds of products they produce, North Carolina farmers will help themselves and their communities by filling out the Census of Agriculture and returning it promptly."

For more information about the Census of Agriculture, contact the NASS North Carolina Field Office at (800) 437-8451 or log on to www.agcensus.usda.gov.

NCDA&CS raises reimbursement limits for programs helping farmers with hay-transportation costs

In response to the rising cost of hay shipments, the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services recently increased the reimbursement limits for two programs aimed at helping drought-stricken livestock owners with the cost of moving hay to their farms.

The Ag and Equine Partners hay relief programs help owners of cattle, sheep, goats and horses with the cost of moving hay purchased outside North Carolina. (See page 4 for more details on the Equine Partners program.)

The programs will reimburse livestock owners up to $500 for a load of hay moved from out of state. Livestock owners may seek cost-share funds for up to three loads. The new limits apply to hay hauled since Dec. 4, the day the Council of State approved $250,000 in emergency funds for the cost-share programs.

Reimbursement had been limited to $300 for a single load of hay.

Reimbursements will be made on a first-come, first-served basis as long as funding is available.

"The money from the Council of State augments $50,000 in private donations our department previously obtained," Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler said. "Through this public-private partnership, North Carolina is helping its livestock owners cope with the drought and feed animals this winter. I am thankful to Governor Easley, my fellow Council of State members and the companies and organizations that have stepped up to help our farmers with this challenge."

For information about applying for assistance from Ag Partners or Equine Partners, call the department's Hay Alert hotline at 1-866-506-6222 or log on to www.ncagr.com/hayalert.

The department will continue to seek private support for the programs, Troxler said. Businesses and organizations interested in contributing to Ag Partners or Equine Partners may contact Chrissy Lucas at (919) 733-7125 or christina.lucas@ncmail.net.

program starts at 10 a.m. and lunch will be served.

Because of the weather, this has been a difficult year for agriculture in this state and region, and we face a number of issues that require immediate attention. But it is also important for us to keep an eye focused on the future and be prepared for changes on the horizon and trends that will shape agriculture in ways we have not experienced before.

Nearly every week I read another article talking about growth issues, overcrowded schools and roads, the costs of providing services to new development, water issues and more.

A number of county boards of commissioners are starting to talk about slowing growth and increasing or implementing impact fees to pay for services. The ongoing drought, the worst in recent memory, has generated concern about water and sewer capabilities to meet existing needs and how new growth will create new demand for a finite resource.

All of these issues represent reasons why I believe farmland preservation is a statewide issue, not just an agricultural issue. This will be something I hope we can discuss at more length at the forum.

The second activity I want to mention is the Census of Agriculture, which is conducted nationally every five years. The information gathered in this survey helps decision makers understand the impact of agriculture locally, regionally and nationally.

The census-taking activities have already begun in North Carolina. Forms were mailed in late December, and I’d encourage every producer to fill theirs out and return it by the Feb. 4 deadline. Make sure your farming operation is counted.

Wheat fertilization requires close scrutiny this year

Fertilizer costs nearly double what they were in 2006

Skyrocketing fertilizer prices and the current drought make it important for wheat producers to gauge nitrogen needs accurately this year. The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services is advising growers to base upcoming fertilizer decisions on tiller counts and plant tissue analysis results.

“Last fall, nitrogen was selling for $180 per ton. This year the price is up to $320,” said Ben Knox, a regional agronomist with the department. “No one wants to apply more than is necessary, especially when it is likely that some fields still contain residual nitrogen from a previous crop. This year growers should get into the field and scout early and often.”

The time to count tillers is in late January or early February when wheat begins to green up. At this stage, 50 to 70 tillers per square foot is optimum. If wheat was planted late, tiller counts may be significantly lower. In that case, it is appropriate to apply 30 to 40 pounds of nitrogen per acre right away. This application will enhance tillering on warm days without fostering excessive growth.

Tissue testing should be on the calendar in late February or early March. Precise timing will depend on weather and crop growth stage. Tissue sampling to evaluate nitrogen levels in wheat should coincide with Zadoks Growth Stage 30, also known as Feekes Stage 4–5. At this stage, wheat is usually 5 to 6 inches tall, stems are upright, and tillering has stopped. To determine whether wheat has reached this growth stage, dig up a plant, slice it down the middle and measure the distance from the bottom of the plant to the top of the growing point.

If the measurement is one-half inch, it is time to sample.

Because of the ongoing drought, tissue testing is a must this year. Plants need water to use nitrogen, and the lack of rain means it is likely that nitrogen from the previous crop is still in the soil. If wheat is thriving on residual nitrogen, tissue test results will point that out and you will be able to adjust spring application rates accordingly.

Brenda Cleveland, chief of the NCDA&CS Plant, Waste and Solution Section, said tissue testing is crucial to appropriate nitrogen fertilization, but it often uncovers other nutrient problems, too.

“Wheat producers are most concerned about nitrogen,” Cleveland said. “If they apply too little, there will be fewer heads and fewer and smaller kernels. If they put out too much, there may be problems with lodging, disease, leaching or runoff. At least half of our tissue tests, however, reveal that potassium, magnesium or sulfur levels are also low enough to limit yield. With wheat prices remaining favorable this year, growers have extra incentive to follow all plant report recommendations carefully.”

To collect tissue samples, break plants off about one-half inch above the ground. A good sample consists of about two handfuls of plants gathered from 20 to 30 areas throughout the field.

In early 2008, the NCDA&CS Agronomic Division will hold training sessions in the eastern part of the state on how to count tillers, identify wheat growth stages and collect tissue samples. For training dates and locations, contact regional agronomist Wayne Nixon at (252) 335-4142 or Kent Yarborough at (252) 793-4118, ext. 122.

Assistance available for horse owners for cost of transporting winter hay

Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler recently announced the Equine Partners Hay Relief Program will help horse owners with the cost of moving hay purchased outside North Carolina.

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services is seeking private donations for the program, Troxler said.

The cost-share program will provide farmers a one-time reimbursement of 50 cents per mile for round trip or $1 per loaded mile, up to $500, for a load of hay moved from out of state. Reimbursements will be made on a first-come, first-served basis as long as funding is available.

For information about the Equine Partners program, call the department’s Hay Alert toll-free hotline at 1-866-506-6222. Information also is available at www.ncagr.com/hayalert/equinepartners.htm.

Troxler alerts agribusinesses about SBA loans for drought losses

Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler reminds nurseries that they may be eligible for low-interest drought assistance loans offered through the U.S. Small Business Administration. The loans are available for all qualifying small businesses affected by the drought.

“Loans are now available for eligible nurseries because of three recent federal disaster declarations,” Troxler said. “Most North Carolina counties are included in the program, and I encourage nurserymen to contact the Small Business Administration if they are interested in this program.”

Eligible small businesses may qualify for loans up to $1.5 million. Loans are available at 4 percent interest rates. Loan amounts and terms are determined by the SBA.

Agricultural producers are not eligible for loans under this disaster declaration. However, most farm-related and non-farm related small businesses affected by the drought, are eligible to apply.

To find out more about the program, contact the SBA’s Customer Service Center at 1-800-659-2955 Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Loan applications can be downloaded from the SBA’s Web site at www.sba.gov. The deadline for applying for this loan program is May 12.

State purchasing hay to resell to farmers at lowest cost possible

The Council of State in December approved a plan to provide up to $3.5 million to get hay for drought-stricken farmers who are running out of feed for their cattle, horses, sheep and goats.

The plan offered by Gov. Mike Easley will provide money to purchase and haul hay from other states to North Carolina, and sell it to farmers at the lowest cost possible.

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services has ordered the first shipment, which is scheduled to be delivered to six sites around the state in early January. As livestock owners buy up the hay, the department will purchase additional loads.

Large and small bales will be available at each of the following locations:

- Mountain Research Station, 265 Test Farm Road, Waynesville;
- Upper Mountain Research Station, 8004 N.C. Highway 88 East, Laurel Springs;
- Piedmont Research Station, 8350 Sherrills Ford Road, Salisbury;
- Piedmont Triad Farmers Market, 2914 Sandy Ridge Road, Colfax;
- Caswell Research Farm, 2415 W. Vernon Ave., Kinston;
- Oxford Tobacco Research Station, 300 Providence Road, Oxford.

“This hay will provide an emergency stockpile that farmers can tap if they find themselves in desperate need,” said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. “The agriculture community is appreciative of the

Winning recipes from the N.C. State Fair

For all the winning recipes, go to www.ncstatefair.org/2007a

N.C. Egg Association’s Incredible Edible Egg contest

Amanda Boury of Raleigh won first place and $100 for her Greek Quiche at the Incredible Edible Egg International Main Dish Recipe Contest at the N.C. State Fair. The contest was sponsored by the N.C. Egg Association.

Patricia Sasser of Youngsville won $75 for her second-place entry, French Country Quiche. Mary Boury of Knightdale received third place and $50 for French Breakfast Squares. Judges also gave an honorable mention nod to Toni Gaskill of Greenville for her Chili Relleno Bake.

Contest rules called for each recipe to use at least six eggs. Recipes were judged on taste, ease of preparation, originality and appearance.

The winning recipe follows:

Greek Quiche

- ¾ cup sun-dried tomatoes, diced

- ¾ cup roasted red peppers, diced
- ¾ cup artichoke hearts, sliced
- ¾ cup Feta cheese (any flavor, garlic and herb used in winning recipe)
- 6 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup heavy cream
- Salt to taste
- Pepper to taste
- Pie crust

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Pre-bake the pie crust until partially cooked. Remove from oven and scatter vegetables and cheese in bottom of crust. Beat eggs, milk, cream, salt and pepper together. Pour over the vegetables. Bake for 1 hour or until set.

Jane’s Tarheel Meatloaf is N.C. Pork Council’s Tarheel Pork Challenge winner

Jane Blanco of Raleigh won first place and $200 in the N.C. Pork Council Tarheel Pork Challenge cooking contest for her Jane’s Tarheel Meatloaf recipe. Kathy Shortt of Garner won second place and $150 with her Sausage and Spinach Wellington, and Gail Fuller won third place and $100 for her Piggy Stuffed Pasta.

Judges also awarded honorable mentions to Sandra Bass of Dunn for her Kickin’ Stuffed Peppers recipe and to Hope Adams of Raleigh for her Pork and Apple Wellingtons. Cyndi Smith of Smithfield won Best Presentation for Grandma Bunch’s Never-fail Smoked Ham.

Judging was based on taste appeal, appearance, originality of recipe and ease of preparation.

The winning recipe follows:

Jane’s Tarheel Meatloaf

- 2 pounds ground pork
- ½ package Stove Top Stuffing for Pork, crushed
- ½ cup diced onion
- ½ teaspoon ground black pepper
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup golden raisins
- 1 medium Granny Smith apple, peeled and chopped

- ½ cup apple cider
- 1 large egg, beaten slightly

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix Stove Top Stuffing mix with apple cider; set aside to soften. In large bowl, combine ground pork with diced onion, salt, pepper, chopped apple and raisins. Add prepared stuffing mix and beaten egg; blend well. Shape mixture into loaf shape, or shape into a Tar Heel foot. Place in 13 x 9 x 2 pan and bake 60-75 minutes, depending on thickness of loaf/foot. Prepare sauce while baking. Serves 6-8.

Apple Balsamic Sauce

- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon minced garlic
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 package pork gravy mix
- 1 large Granny Smith apple, peeled and diced
- 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1 teaspoon Gravy Master

Sauté garlic and onion in skillet until softened, about 3-5 minutes. Add apples and balsamic vinegar. Cook over medium heat while stirring until caramelized, about 5 minutes. Stir in gravy mix, broth and Gravy Master and continue stirring until smooth.

Breakfast on a fork is a blue-ribbon winner

Good Morning Breakfast on a Fork won Gail Fuller of Raleigh $200 and a blue ribbon in the “Stick with Canola Oil – Fry it For the Fair” cooking contest. Jackie Wilder of Raleigh won second place and $75 for Apple Crisp on a Stick recipe. Harriet Carter of Durham won third place and $25 for Yam Twisters.

The contest required the food to be presented on a stick and was judged on appearance, texture, taste and presentation.

The winning recipe follows:

Good Morning Breakfast on a Fork

- 1 package sausage links – cooked
- 1 bag frozen potato crispy crowns
- ¼ cup egg substitute
- 6 slices thin bacon
- 1 package egg roll wrappers
- 2 cups canola oil

Cut the sausage links into ¼-inch slices and cut potato crowns in half. Pour egg substitute into a small flat dish and microwave until cooked through, about 1 ½ minutes on 50 percent power. Cut into ½-inch blocks. Cut bacon slices in half lengthwise and par cook bacon slices in microwave oven until limp (about 2 minutes on high). Wrap bacon slice around one piece each sausage, potato and egg block. Secure with toothpicks. Wrap with twisted strips of egg roll wrappers. Secure with toothpicks. Place on fork and fry 30 -60 seconds in Canola oil heated to 375 degrees.

Dip in maple syrup or applesauce.

Pecan cheese logs win in N.C. Pecan Association’s contest

Patricia Sasser of Youngsville won $100 and a blue ribbon for her Pecan Cheese Log recipe in the N.C. Pecan Association Pecan Recipe Competition at the N.C. State Fair. Faye Wood of Zebulon took second place and $50 for Hawaiian Pineapple Cake and Julie DePiro of Willow Spring took home $25 for her third-place entry, Pecan Pumpkin Crisp. Honorable Mention was given to Toni Gaskill of Greenville for Chocolate Chess Pie.

Recipes were judged on taste, appearance, creative use of pecans and ease of preparation.

The winning recipe follows:

Pecan Cheese Logs

- 8 ounces sharp cheddar cheese
- 1 ½ sticks butter or margarine, room temperature
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 cup finely chopped North Carolina pecans
- ¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
- 2 cups self-rising flour
- ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper

Sift flour, pepper and paprika into a bowl. Grate cheddar and add to flour mixture along with parmesan cheese and butter. Mix well with a fork. Using floured fingers, roll dough into logs about ½-inch in diameter and 6 inches long on a lightly floured piece of wax paper. Cut logs into 2-inch pieces and roll in chopped pecans until covered. Bake on an ungreased sheet at 400 degrees for about 15 minutes. Remove from pan to cool. Can be stored in air-tight containers until ready to use.

Purchasing hay (Cont’d from pg. 4)

governor seeing the severity of the problem and being willing to act.”

Livestock owners interested in buying the hay should contact the toll-free Hay Alert hotline at 1-866-506-6222 for details.

The Council of State unanimously voted in December to authorize the use of up to $3.5 million to purchase and transport hay. Farmers will pay the direct costs of the hay and transportation, so the state will eventually be reimbursed for its spending.
